THE MAN WITH THE FISH ON HIS FOOT: And Other Tales From A Peculiar Peninsula

Synopsis

Carl Hiaasen, a man who should know, says: "Bob Morris is my favorite writer about all things Florida. He makes me laugh until my teeth hurt." • And Dave Barry says: "Bob Morris is funny as hell." • In this collection of 25 stories, Morris gives readers his twisted take on everything from the dangers of beach-walking and the joys of sweat to the thrill of landing a tarpon and the agonies of boat lust. A former newspaper columnist and magazine editor, Bob Morris contributes to National Geographic Traveler, Bon Appetit, Islands, Caribbean Travel & Life and numerous other publications. He is a recipient of the Ernie Pyle Award for outstanding human interest writing in America. Morris is also author of the Zack Chasteen series of mystery novels set in Florida and the Caribbean. He lives in Winter Park, FL, and teaches creative writing at Rollins College.

Customer Reviews

Florida is truly a never-ending source of inspiration for writers like Bob Morris. While folks who have never lived there might raise an eyebrow at some of the stories, and ask themselves if the scenarios are plausible, I can affirm that they are. My wife especially loved the story of "Bob" and his weekend garden warrior escapade. The trick of writing a good short story is to make the reader wish it would continue, and that is exactly what Bob does in this book. Several of the stories would easily lead into a book of their own, or at least a character in one of the Zack Chasteen novels.

It's hard to find a book that actually makes you laugh out loud. Bob Morris has managed to write one (with the help of Florida's resident loonies). Northerners may suspect that some of these stories are fiction, but as a Floridian, I believe every word. Enjoy !p.s. Rusty Collins, not Julie :-)

I live in Australia and came across Bob Morris by more good luck than good judgement on the Kindle book site. This book is just a great fun read. Sit back, relax and enjoy these short stories from a very good writer.
